

MENB VACCINE AND GONORRHOEA

What is the MenB vaccine?

The MenB (Bexsero®) vaccine is primarily used to protect against meningococcal group B disease, a serious cause of meningitis and blood poisoning. The same vaccine has also been recommended nationally for some people at higher risk of gonorrhoea because initial studies suggested it may offer partial protection.

What to do if I want more information?

Cardiff and Vale Sexual Health Service is not currently prioritising routine MenB vaccination solely for gonorrhoea prevention. If you think you may be eligible and would like to discuss the vaccine, please speak to a member of staff. For more information, visit the CAVUHB website <https://cavuhb.nhs.wales/our-services/sexual-health/>

Heard about the MenB vaccine elsewhere?

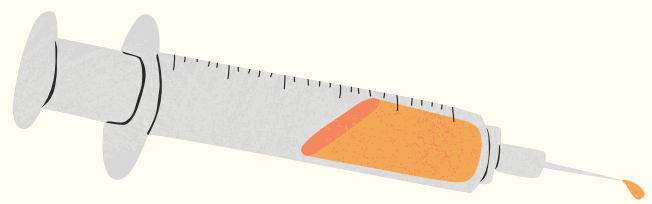

All students under 25 and starting their first year of university in the UK are being offered a vaccine to protect against meningitis B (MenB). Visit the CAVUHB website to find out more by scanning the QR code below.

BRECHLYN MENB A GONOROEIA

Beth yw brechlyn MenB?

Defnyddir y brechlyn MenB (Bexsero®) yn bennaf i amddiffyn rhag clefyd meningococcal grŵp B, achos difrifol o lid yr ymennydd a gwenwyno gwaed. Mae'r un brechlyn hefyd wedi'i argymhell yn genedlaethol ar gyfer rhai pobl sydd mewn mwy o berygl o gonoroeria oherwydd bod astudiaethau cychwynnol wedi awgrymu y gallai gynnig amddiffyniad rhannol.

Beth i'w wneud os ydw i eisiau rhagor o wybodaeth?

Ar hyn o bryd nid yw Gwasanaeth Iechyd Rhywiol Caerdydd a'r Fro yn blaenoriaethu brechiad MenB arferol at ddibenion atal gonoroeria yn unig.
